

Caryn Walsh

Caryn is a psychologist, specialist in leadership and people development, business advisor, international motivational speaker, executive coach and she's passionate about women. She strives to build high performing leaders, teams and people.

'She's Australia's answer to Oprah Winfrey'

Natalie Welch, Manager, Challenge
Community Services

Audiences, clients, colleagues and friends describe Caryn as very funny, with endless energy and optimism, and an incredible joy for living and helping those around her become all they want to be.

She is, quite simply, one of those dynamos who greatly impacts those she meets in the most positive ways.

A sneak peek into my background

- I lectured in psychology at two leading Sydney Universities for more than 10 years
- I ran a successful counselling practice for twenty years
- I have worked with over 10 000 women in my career
- I have consulted to more than 5000 Organisations in leadership and team development and women in business
- I am a specialist in dealing with domestic violence
- I write and deliver training programs around the world focusing on leadership, teams and empowering women and helping them THRIVE!
- I coach and guide women of all ages - young females, CEO's of large Organisations and women on Boards
- I speak at Conferences within Australia and internationally on a regular basis
- I write e-books and international media articles

AWARDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS

- Coach: of the 2016 Australian CEO of the Year (APAC)
- Finalist: 2015 Australian Learning and Development Professional of the Year Award (AITD)
- Finalist: 2015 Australian Woman in International Business Award (Premiers NSW Export Awards)
- Winner: 2016 Top Teams Creating and Sustaining High Performance (AITD)
- Chair of the Organising Committee for the 2016 Stop the Violence Domestic Violence Conference
- Conferences: Spoken at more than 400 Conferences over the last 20 years